Visiting W/E

Hospital Visiting Weekend

Always one of the highlights of the BVHA Calendar, the Hospital Visiting Weekend represents a rare opportunity to have a look at a number of varied and interesting veterinary practices. The partners have kindly agreed to allow us behind the scenes and will describe some of the problems they faced and how they surmounted them. This weekend is a unique opportunity to examine excellence in practice design at close quarters, but numbers will be limited due to the problems of space within the practices, so please book early.

Every practice that we are visiting has its own highlights, including the award-winning Glasgow University veterinary school as well as Hospitals more within reach of the practitioner.

The Visiting Weekend is not just for Hospital owners, but for any practice that wishes to improve or to learn from the experiences of others. Although the theme is practice design, delegates often pick up useful small tips as well, such as labelling systems or ways of storing awkward items. It is also a great opportunity to pick the brains of the BVHA Officers and fellow delegates about issues affecting your own practice.

Edinburgh and Glasgow

Delegates will need little introduction to the attractions of Scotland's capital city. We are based at the stylish Edinburgh Marriott, located just off the ring road, five minutes drive from Edinburgh International Airport and with a convenient local bus service to the city centre, only fifteen minutes away. City attractions include the Castle, zoo, Scottish parliament and palace of Holyrood House. The city's fascinating museums cover topics as varied as the Scotch Whisky Heritage Centre and the Camera Obscura, and there is cosmopolitan shopping on Princes Street. Outside the city, stunning scenery is only minutes away at Queensferry, the Pentland hills and Rosslyn Chapel. Why not stay an extra day or two and enjoy the area?
